

A plantation staycation

Even among the jolliest of folks, holiday stress can tire, overwhelm and threaten to turn the gift of seasonal joy into a big lump of coal. You could always take a Christmas vacation, but that's a whole new round of planning, travel and hassle. Why not opt for a plantation staycation?

The stunning Inn at Middleton Place offers a welcome respite from the pace of daily life and is located a short drive from Downtown Charleston. The award-winning architecture projects a sense of peace on earth even before you get to your room or begin to enjoy the facility's many amenities (among them, complimentary access to the plantation house and grounds). There are plenty of holiday activities to check out at Middleton Place, too. A wealth of visitor packages are available, combining meals, activities and special extras along with your accomodation.

For more information, visit theinnatmiddletonplace.com.

